

REFERENCES

- [1] Zhang, J.; Sokhansanj, S.; Wu, S.; Fang, R.; Yang, W.; Winter, P. A trainable grading system for tobacco leaves. Comput. Electron. Agric. 1997, 16, 231244.
- [2] MacCormac J. On-line image processing for tobacco grading in Zimbabwe. Proceedings of IEEE International Symposium on Industrial Electronics; Budapest, Hungary. 1–3 June 1993; pp. 327–331
- [3] Zhang, F.; Fang, R.; Cai, J. Image retrieval of standary tobacco leaf database, Trans.Chin. Soc.Agric. Mach. 2001, 32, 6667
- [4] Ma W, He L, Xu S, Chen J, Wu Z. Image segmentation based on transmission characteristics of flue-cured tobacco leaves. Trans. Chin. Soc. Agricult. Eng. 2006;22:134–137.
- [5] LeCun, Yann, et al. 1998. Gradient-Based Learning Applied to Document Recognition. Proceedings of the IEEE 86 (11): 22782324.
- [6] Guru, D.S., et al. 2011. Min-max Representation of Features for Grading Cured Tobacco Leaves. Statistics and Applications 9 (12): 1529.
- [7] Prasad, V., T.S. Rao, and M. Babu. 2016. Thyroid Disease Diagnosis Via Hybrid Architecture Composing Rough Data Sets Theory and Machine Learning Algorithms. Soft Computing 20 (3): 11791189.
- [8] Lawrence, Steve, et al. 1997. Face Recognition: A Convolutional Neural-Network Approach. Neural Networks, IEEE Transactions on 8 (1): 98113